The Great Outdoors: Medical Care in Rural and Remote Locations

Mikla N. Derlet, MD

Guest Editor

More people in the United States are spending more time outdoors, which can expose young patients to a variety of conditions, including insect bites, venomous animals, and high-altitude illnesses. This issue of Pediatric Annals features articles reviewing various conditions caused by spending time outdoors. Also, articles on telemedicine discuss long-distance options for medical care.
