The COVID-19 pandemic caused significant educational changes due to social isolation. With remote classes needing to be adapted to the new context, educators needed to adapt, facing stress in the face of technological challenges and fear of contagion. Another relevant issue to be considered is that 70% of the educators are women who in this period are doing double or triple hours at home.

Virtual support platform for educators, covering various forms of assistance, from psychological to speech therapy. Virtual environment containing conversation circles, thematic workshops and short courses with proper certification.

OPPORTUNITY

Development of a virtual platform that offers several activities, as well as individual hosting in online rooms to teach courses, with ethics and security.
